

Post-Acute Care Close to Home

At Penn Highlands Healthcare, we understand there are times when a person no longer needs the acute care they receive in our hospitals — yet they may not be strong enough to return home or resume their normal activities. For those people, we offer post-acute care.

When an illness, surgery or accident disrupts your life, it is important to recover properly to avoid any lingering problems. In some instances, people of any age, may require post-acute care to further heal or regain their strength.

Penn Highlands Healthcare offers many convenient and comfortable recovery options that are close to home, or depending on the level of care needed, may be provided in your own home.
